SENATE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 19.—Communications were laid before the Senate from the Secretary of War transmitting copies of the reports of surveys for the proposed improvement of the mouth of Red river and of the harbor of Mobile.

A communication was also received from the Secretary of the Interior transmitting the information called for with reference to the Indian tribes, land grants and Railroad Companies in the Indian territory; referred.

The business of the morning hour was suspended and the Senate re-suspended in consideration of the Hot Springs, Ark., strike.

After the adoption of the amendment striking out the provision for appeal to the court of claims, the bill was read the third time and passed.

The Senate then went into an executive session and when the doors were reopened adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE.

Wright of Pennsylvania, Chairman of the committee on Labor Depression, reported a joint resolution requesting the President to give notice to the Chinese Government that it is the desire of the United States Government that the clauses in the treaties between the two governments which allow and permit the importation of the subjects and citizens of the two countries be abrogated and annulled. Placed on the calendar, and the majority and minority reports were ordered printed.

NOTICE TO SOUTHERN MERCHANTS.

CINCINNATI, March 19.—To accommodate the large number of guests at the banquet to the Southern excursionists, the main body of Music Hall was converted into one magnificent dining room, and all the available space was occupied. Gov. Foster, Gov. E. C. K. of Ky., Gov. Colquitt of Ga., Hon. W. S. Grossbeck, Hon. H. P. Temple, Mayor of Chattanooga, ex-Senator Chalmers of Miss., E. Leslie Brooks of Mobile, ex-Governor Bishop of Okla., M. L. Mays, Mayor of Montgomery, Alas., Gov. Colquitt of Cincinnati, and Ferguson, Mack Bugh and Greenwood, trustees of the Cincinnati Southern Road; when the orchestra played to a particularly pleasing number about half-past 10 o'clock an ovation was indicated, and the orchestra responded with Dixie. The effect was magical. All over the noise men rose up and shouted in the greatest enthusiasm, the music was almost drowned, but when the orchestra struck the majestic tones of the Star Spangled Banner, voices indescribable. Everybody rose and applauded, with waving handkerchiefs, and finally the great organ joined in an unparalleled outburst, after which great enthusiasm followed.

It was 12 o'clock when the speaking began, the order being as follows: Address by Mayor Jacobs, an address of welcome on behalf of the State, by Gov. Foster; Cincinnati Southern, Response by Hon. E. A. Ferguson, for South Atlantic States; response by Gov. Colquitt; Gov. for Gold States; response by Leslie Brooks, Mobile. Our Northern and Southern comedians, responses by M. E. THE RAILROAD QUESTION.

This committee meets with open doors in the Senate chamber, and two-thirds of the members of both Houses attend its sessions. Indeed it is unusual that the fight will be made in the committee room. Mr. Dorch's speech is generally regarded as a very strong one, but the objection urged against it is that his plan—shown by his bill already published—is impracticable. "True, Mr. Dorch has shown us," said a member of the committee, "that there are several very serious objections to the sale of the railroads, but what is he going to do with it? Convict labor can't be worked without money. The State certainly will not appropriate another cent towards its construction, and don't pay down expenses and hence don't pay down the railroads. It's perfect folly to talk about the State being able to make money out of it, if private individuals can. Experience teaches the very reverse of this."

The committee has just met for the second time, and it is understood that Capt. C. M. Cooke, of Franklin, a member of the board of internal improvements, will open the argument again. Mr. Dorch's position, then, which introduced the bill, was that it was an amendment since it was introduced.

DAILY NEWS

SATURDAY MARCH 20, 1886.

GEO. C JORDAN, Editor and Prop.

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS.

Most prominent among the opponents of the sale of the Western North Carolina Railroad, are Mr. Dorch, Major Hearne, Col. L. W. Humphrey, Colonel Duncan K. McRae, Judge Merrimon, Mr. D. L. Russell, and Maj. W. A. Smith. Major Hearne is an able and facile journalist of the impersonal school—a school which holds that an editor, equally with an attorney, may espouse and defend a cause that at heart he thoroughly believes to be thoroughly bad. Accordingly Major Hearne has edited with equal ease and equal ability newspapers of radical or democratic views as occasion required or opportunity offered, and we presume he will continue to do so.

Col. Humphrey was at one time in good standing in the democratic party, but of late years, beginning with the Merrimon bolt in 1872, he has been in exceedingly good standing in the radical party. Indeed he is regarded as the brains of the native wing of that party, and loves nothing better per se than to fight the Democracy, and has been since 1875 the special antagonist of Mr. Dorch of Wayne.

Col. Duncan K. McRae is a gentleman of considerable sprightliness and versatility, and in politics a persistent, if not a consistent, independent. Indeed his thoughts at all times seem to turn as lightly to thoughts of bolting, as those of youth in spring time toward the tender passion. His opposition to Mr. Ashe, the regular democratic nominee for Congress in the Cape Fear District just before he was sent as consul to Paris, as well as his independent candidacy for Governor against Judge Ellis, the regular nominee, in 1858, and his support of Douglass in 1860, will long be remembered. His political career during a portion of the twelve years of his absence from the State since the war, has been, if report be true, equally consistent. As a bolter Col. McRae is and always has been, a pronounced success. As a friend of Col. McRae, and one at all times anxious to promote his happiness, we grieve over his misfortune in missing the Senatorial bolt in 1872. Great Heavens, how that memorable bolt would have delighted his independent soul!

Mr. A. S. Merrimon is pretty well known in North Carolina. Even those who feel most kindly toward him must admit that he has been the cause of more discord in the democratic ranks than any man now living who ever belonged to the party. The great Russell is an accidental Congressman from the Cape Fear District, who owes his seat in Congress to Democratic apathy. He is a bitter, malignant, unscrupulous partisan.

Mr. W. A. Smith it is scarcely his name, "Blow your horn Billy" has been a household word of not the most pleasant sound in Democratic ears for lo! these many days. As a friend to Democracy he yields to no man in the State.

The attitude of Mr. Dorch amid such surroundings presents one of the most grotesque, and, we are pained to say, singularly unpleasant political aspects of the pending controversy. We have always been accustomed to regard Mr. Dorch as a Democrat of the straightforward, and to see him fighting the main-stream of his party with such comrades as we have named, grieves us to the soul. We hope however for better things, and we are by no means sure that we shall not see them. Mr. Dorch's stomach must turn sooner or later. In fact we thought we saw a symptom of a qualm on Monday when he withdrew his objection to the resolution which gave the House more members on the Railroad Committee than the Senate. Though there never has been a precedent for such a thing since time began, Mr. D. thought the committee should be composed of an equal number from the Senate and House. Mr. Everett, the radical Son from Forsyth, who has kindly taken to patronizing Mr. Dorch of late, came warmly to his support.

Mr. Dorch said not a word more but withdrew his amendment! And no wonder,

A SIMPLE INQUIRY.

Do the opponents of the sale of the Western North Carolina Railroad care to be accurate in their settlements concerning it? Certainly they seem to take no pains to learn the truth of every rumor, which they are swift to assert or publish as an ascertained fact.

Their favorite method of misrepresentation is to denounce every person who favors the sale a "paid attorney." With studied injustice, the services of Messrs. Davis and Ruffin, which were given to their native State freely and heartily at the request of Governor Jarvis, and who declined in advance to receive any compensation, have been disparaged as the labors of retained lawyers, and it has been apparently purposely left indefinite by editors and speakers as to the party by whom these gentlemen were to be paid. In short, it seems as if the inference has been intended to be drawn that they were paid by Mr. Best. Judge Merrimon was promptly rebuked on Thursday night by Gov. Jarvis for fling at these gentlemen, and then naively expressed his regret that these distinguished gentlemen should have given their services to North Carolina without pay. We do not think that Judge Merrimon is justly subject to a similar accusation in his dealings with the Western North Carolina Railroad, or in the suit of the bondholders against the North Carolina Railroad.

So also when a correspondent of the Observer answers the argument of Mr. Dorch, the papers cry out "Best's Attorney," and this notwithstanding the fact that such a statement is absolutely without foundation.

Again, we hear daily denunciations of the gentlemen whose names are mentioned as the proposed purchasers of the railroad, without the shadow of a justification or excuse.

Their unpardonable crime is that they are willing to invest money in North Carolina upon certain specified terms. Governor Jarvis requested Dr. Worth to proceed to New York and learn the standing, financial and personal, of these gentlemen, and at Dr. Worth's suggestion, Hon. Joseph J. Davis was asked to accompany him. Colonel W. E. Anderson, President of the Citizens' National Bank of Raleigh, at the Governor's instance, also sought information upon these points through his financial correspondents in New York. We applied at the Executive office for copies of these letters and submit them to a public audience. Messrs. Grace, Tappan, Fish and others are gentlemen of the highest character, financial and personal, or Messrs. Worth, Davis and Anderson are either dupes or knaves. Every one must be assured that what the purchasers intend to do, they honestly mean to do.

NORTH CAROLINA AT CINCINNATI
If a nomination by the National Democratic Convention were equivalent to an election, the vote of North Carolina at Cincinnati would hardly be a matter of doubt. Above all others, the spotless personal character, the statesmanship which rises to a higher plane of thought and action than that of many of the politicians by whom he is surrounded, the devotion to constitutional law and liberty which are engraved upon his heart of heart, the faithfulness with which he has always advocated the right of the Southern States to local self-government, place Thomas F. Bayard, of Delaware, first in our affections.

But, (and it is with sincere regret that we are compelled to admit that there is a "but") the delegates from North Carolina will go to Cincinnati with the earnest purpose to aid in the nomination of that man who will most surely receive the largest electoral vote. The effect that the course which Mr. Bayard took in 1861 (however it may meet with our approval), will bear upon his candidature, and the difficulty of rendering his financial views acceptable to the people of Ohio and Indiana, will receive thoughtful consideration. If it shall be developed that Mr. Justice Field, Senator Davis, Davis, Gen. Hancock, Hon. H. J. Jewett, or best of all, Governor Seymour, can enter the field with fairer prospects of success, the course of our delegates should not be doubtful.

Of all the candidates now prominently mentioned, there is but one whose nomination will cast a shadow over our canvass, and relegate North Carolina into the list of doubtful States. Whether rightly or wrongly it is useless now to investigate, but if Gov. Tilden is placed at the head of the ticket we shall look forward to desperate work at home. The feeling of opposition to him, arising from different causes, is so widespread and universal in North Carolina that it is the part of a faithful journal to give expression to it.

One of the "irresponsible" associates of W. J. Best, mentioned in the bill, Mr. W. R. Grace of New York, has just given one fourth of the entire cargo now loading in New York, stores of food for suffering Ireland. Probably these gentlemen could get more credit in Raleigh or elsewhere than Judge Merrimon imagines.

It is hardly necessary to call the attention of the committee on Corporations of the House to the Ellison-Wynne bill in relation to the city of Raleigh. It is merely an effort to restore the government of the city to the Radical crew who so nearly carried it to bankruptcy prior to 1875. We apprehend that Mr. Wynne would find serious difficulty in giving a local habitation and a name to the "prominent democrats" at whose instance the bill is purported to be introduced. It should, and doubtless will, be reported adversely and promptly tabled.

—The "Peace" Cooking School.
—The Reporter regrets exceedingly that these notices were such as to prevent his attendance upon and enjoy the supper given to the members of the city press Wednesday evening, at Peace Institution.

—We know the supper was excellent, and that the "cooks"—being such fair ones—could not do other than prepare tempting viands. Mrs. Campbell, the teacher, deserves credit for introducing this new and excellent feature among the cooking classes. Her pupils and the "cooks" should be brought to the necessity of preparing a meal, under any circumstances. Their instruction here received will prove of inestimable benefit to them.

—Here is the bill of fare as served:

LATE STATE NOTES.

The Moore Index favors the sale of the W. N. C. R. R.

The Clatham Record says to the Legislature: "We respectfully urge upon them to sell the road to the best advantage, without unnecessary delay, and adjourn at once and go home."

Concerning the delegates who were sent from the Fourth District to Cincinnati, the Record urges that the expenses should be paid by the Convention that sends them, or in other words, by the Democratic party of the District.

The following information given by the Statesville Leader, meets with the hearty approval of the Charlotte Democrat, as might be expected from a man of the good hard sense of Bro. Yates:

"One of our North Carolina newspapermen has written an article on 'North Carolina and the Immigration'?"

"Come up right close, buddy, and let us tell you. This is the reason why: If any immigrant comes here with brains and money to use for his own and the general good, so many people like himself can make a ring-toss out of him, and a honest backwoodsman he can't stay in peace and quiet, won't stay at all. You best of North Carolina's extraordinary natural advantages, her undeveloped resources and all that sort of thing, and then when you get a stranger to you and to me, come to us to try to turn for us your property, to turn around and accuse him of trying to steal you out of house and home. Now you know why North Carolina has had no immigration. Don't you see the point?"

Mr. Best, who proposes to buy the Western N. C. Road, can furnish the "point."
